This workshop delves into research-based best practices in literacy instruction focusing on teaching methods that make the most impact on student learning. Teachers will examine daily structures and routines that provide clear expectations, demonstrate critical and reflective thinking, engage students in collaborative conversations, allow time for authentic learning experiences, and present ongoing feedback in order to develop self-directed learners.

The content of this workshop includes an introduction to the following topics:

- Understanding the Gradual Release of Responsibility
- Components of Reading Workshop
- Creating a Literacy-Rich Environment: Rituals, Routines, and Tools
- Lesson Structures: Interactive Read-Alouds and Mini-Lessons (Think-Alouds)
- Motivating Readers with Mentor Texts: Conversation and Use of Stems
- Units of Study that Focus on Genre: Deepening our Understandings of Structures, Features, and Purposes of Genre Instruction

$119 Per Participant
